

Traditional foods are increasingly attracting the interest of consumers and manufacturers. Despite several attempts to a formal definition, tradition is intrinsically local and diverse, escaping deterministic classification.

BaSeFood (Sustainable exploitation of bioactive components from the Black Sea area traditional foods; www.basefood-fp7.eu) is a EU FP7 funded project, ending in October 2012. Coordinated by the University of Bologna, Italy, the project aims at investigating several aspects of plant origin Black Sea Area traditional foods.

Traditional Food International (TFI-2012; www.tfi-2012.com) is an international meeting, organised in correspondence with BaSeFood end. Without the ambition of being olistic, TFI-2012 is aimed at putting together different approaches and disciplines for the study of all aspects of traditional foods.

The Street Food session will try to link traditional and street foods, introducing the dissemination activities within the annual Cesena Street food festival.

On behalf of the organising committee, we cordially invite you to attend the TFI-2012, looking forward to see you in Cesena
